Hollister Construction Services, a leading full-service general contractor and construction manager specializing in medical, industrial, commercial and retail construction, announced that the firm recently completed an extensive interior medical office renovation for Oakhurst Medical Office, located at 1910 Highway 35 in Oakhurst, N.J.

The approximately 4,000-square-foot design build project involved renovating both the front and back offices of the property for the owner, Family First Medical. For the front office, Hollister constructed a large reception area with a special section for children, an accessible restroom, as well as an area for administration and a large records room. The back office now has a centralized nurses' station with two private doctor offices, two consultation rooms, six examination rooms, one drug-screening facility, and a specialty exam room with a private lab/utility. A combination break/conference room was also created.

"The space was designed and construction of the space revolved around patient flow, which is indicative in the centrally located nurses' station and the oversized reception area," stated Chris Johnson, CEO of Hollister Construction Services. "This renovation will greatly improve the working environment and help this growing medical practice thrive in this location."
